There is an outlook for a bitter feeling between the two legislative bodies before he close of the Sixth session of the Utah Legislature. Aiready unwarranted or unprovoked flings are being made at each other, and it is charged that bills origigating in either house are killed for spite.

Committee Makes Short Work of the Eight-Hour Bill

If the bill to make eight hours the legal February 22 day in factories, mills and machine shops had any friends in the House aside from its author, Mr. Hone of Utah, the fact was not apparent yesterday. The Committees on Labor and Manufactures and Commerce, to which it has been jointly recommended that it be not passed, but the only signature to the bill was that of Chairman Cromar of the committee on Labor.
"If there is no objection, the report of the committee will be adopted," said the Sneaker.

Mr. Hone Objected.

Mr. Hone Objected.

Mr. Hone objected and demanded a rollcall on the adoption of the report. Mr.
Cromar of the Committee on Labor said that three or four members of the joint committee were in favor of the measure, but had decided not to bring in a minority report. He, too, asked that the rollbe called. It looked as though the necessary five might be secured to demand a rollcall, when the Speaker feerposed.

"I do not think it is fair that each member should be required to go on record on this kind of a motion." he said.

It was evident, notwithstanding the light way in which the bill has been spokon of, that the majority did not care to be recorded as for or against it. The Speaker indicated a way out of the difficulty by menticuling that the report was not signed by the chairman of the Committee on Manufactures and Commerce. Joseph took the hint and moved that it be recommitted to that committee for the signature of the chairman.

ignored.

The referendum bill is virtually the same as has, been introduced at every session of the Assembly since the people of the State adopted a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to pass such legislature. It provides that when a certain percentage of the electors petition for the enactment of a certain law, the proposed law shall be submitted for passage or rejection to a popular vote. The referendum proviso is that within thirty days after the passage of a bill by the Legislature a certain percentage of electors may petition that it be submitted to popular vote, whereupon an election shall be held at which every elector may vote for or against the bill, thus confirming or defeating it. Except when petitions are presented by 5 or a greater percent of the voters, the laws will be made as at present.

The bill was finally placed at the bottom of the calendar so that the members of the House could have an opportunity to look up the meaning of "fiscal year" in the city directory.

There were four votes against Johnson's bill making it a misdemeanor to sell firearms to minors under the age of 12 years, or for such minors to have firearms in their possession. The bill, as originally presented, fixed the maximum age at 14, but the House thought that Utah boys should know how to shoot at that age. Another amendment was made allowing boys to go shooting when their parents or guardians are along.

The new experiment station bill was made a special order for next Tuesday at 3 p. m.

Mr. Wilson introduced a solution requesting the permission of the Senate to adjourn until Monday. The committee of eight appointed to visit the branch normal at Cedar City was excused until Monday afternoon.

missibility would have to be submitted

The result of the canvass up to the close this evening shows fifteen election districts counted out of a total of fortynine in Weber county, and of those counted only five are disposed of, as in all the others challenges have been entered by one side or the other.

Nothing developed at today's proceedings that can be construed as an advantage to either side, excepting that late in the day counsel for the contestee waived its right to take evidence on each parcel of ballots as brought into court. This will expedite the canvass, which already promises to be long and tedious, with a battle of legal talent to follow on each of the challenged ballots, of which there will be some hundreds.

For the time the contest seems to have degenerated into one of challenges and this will ultimately add to the numerous questions to be finally disposed of.

While no apparent advantage has been gained by either side, the net result of the recount to date is an apparent increase of eleven votes for Rolapp over the original count. This is aside from challenges, of which sixty-five are against Howell and fifty-five against Rolapp. On original count to date on same districts recounted gave Howell thirty-five majority. The recount to date on same districts has reduced this majority to twenty-four.

Sub rosa of the proceedings, on one little point the contestee is having a quiet laugh at the expense of the contestant. When, at the time of the original canvass by the County Commissioners the First Hooper district returns were opened the laily sheet showed only twenty-eight votes for Howell and hirteen for Rolapp, a total of forty-one, whereas 125 votes had been cast, four of which were blank as to the Judge, leaving eighty votes unaccounted for on the judicial ticket. The judges of election were invited by the Commissioners to explain the discrepancy and stated that they had omitted to enter the straight ballots on the tally sheet. There were just eighty of these, fifty-seven being for Howell and iwanty-three for Rolapp. The election jud

Morning Session.

At the morning session of court before the recount of the baillots was resumed, two more large parcels, containing each the packages of bailots from a number of districts, were brought in and evidence taken as to their original receipt. This, for the reason that under the stiputation of yesterday evidence to render the bailots admissible as evidence in the case was agreed as necessary, and a sufficient number of bailots to keep the canvassing board busy all day had to be on hand. To reach this end Hon Charles R. Hollingsworth of the Legislature and excounty clerk of Weber county had come up from Salt Lake to give his testimony. After giving his evidence this morning Mr. Hollingsworth informed the court that he would waive his constitutional rights as a member of the Legislature and would appear in court at 10 o'clock each morning to give evidence on each bundle of bailots brought in.

The testimony of Mr. Hollingsworth and his deputies was similar to that of Wednesday, and the bailots were admitted as evidence over the objection of the contestee, exception to the court's rolling being made.

Judge Powers had been called to Salt Lake, and his place was filled on the canvassing board by Judge Rolapp Judge Powers returned early in the aftarnoon.

The canvasa was resumed, Eden furnishing one more vote for Rolapp than in the original count, and no bailots challenged. Farr West resulted in the challenged of one Howell bailot.

The next package presented was First Huntsville. The envelope had a tear in it thirteen inches and George D. Folkman, who had originally received the package in the clerk's office, testified that this tear, or opening, was now about four Inches larger than when first received. Witness was asked to make the attempt in the presence of the court in evidence. Objected to by Judge Maginess, and the objection sustained, Judge Morse stating that he would at a later date in the proceedings listen to argument for and against its admission.

The second Huntsville envelope being produced it was found to b unchallenged. The contest had degenerated for the time being into one wherein each side was apparently trying to jeopardize a greater number of ballots than the other.

The last district in the bundles that had been brought in in the morning was Marriott and on the suggestion of Gen. Kimball for the contestee it was agreed and stipulated that the evidence given by ex-County Clerk Hollingsworth in regard to the first bundles introduced would apply to all others that had been in his custody. It was yet early in the aftermoon and time left to canvass several more polis, and the suggestion of Gen. Kimball, who, by the way, had fraugurated the obstructive practise of taking separate evidence regarding each bundle, was eagerly welcomed by the court and attorneys. Under the stipulation another bundle, containing the returns from four small precincts and the canvass proceeded. Here is the result thus far.
